

NEW NOTE TO TEAM ANOTHER ATTACK ON UNFRIENDLY ACT

Wilson's Reply Will Warn Germany of Interpretation U.S. Will Place on Future Transgressions of Our Rights

TALK OF PRINCIPLES VIRTUALLY IS ENDED

Term "Unfriendly Act" Carries With It Implication of Finality, Leading Often to Severance of Friendly Relations

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—The United States has decided to interpret Germany's further loss of American lives as the result of German submarine warfare a contravention of the principles of international law, will be regarded as an "unfriendly act."

The discussion of principles virtually is ended. The American government now will warn Germany of the interpretation it will place on future transgressions of American rights.

In the new note the United States assumes that Germany already has admitted the principle that passengers carrying merchantmen as a prize are not removed from destroying an enemy vessel.

Taking the position, therefore, that the two governments are agreed in principle, the United States views it as incumbent on Germany to make her submarine practice conform with the accepted principles of international law.

Any deviation in actual practice resulting in the loss of American lives, it then is asserted, will be viewed as an unfriendly act.

The action which the United States has subsequently taken is not indicated, but in diplomatic usage, the phrase "unfriendly act" has always carried with it an implication of finality leading often to a severance of friendly relations.

Officials generally are secretive concerning the treatment of the Lusitania in 1915 and the American government will not request for reparations to be returned and that this issue would be kept unsaid by the two governments.

The note will be finished tomorrow or Friday, Cabinet officials are believed to be working on it. It will not be delayed because of the German submarine attack on the British liner Orono. Official information as to the circumstances of the attack will be awaited at the state department.

German Papers Silent
On New Note to Berlin
(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, July 21.—German papers print no comment letters and press dispatches concerning President Wilson's "unfriendly act" to Germany on submarine warfare.

Plenty of Work for Laundresses
A good laundress is, indeed, a big business for no mistress of a home is happy or contented unless her table, bed and person are kept clean and spotless.

Protection of State Road Urged By Winbush

Terms and Price of Lease of Western and Atlantic Railway Are Discussed in the Fifth Article by Noted Railroad Authority—Lease Should Run for Long Period, He Says.

BY HON. W. A. WINBUSH

This article is written upon the assumption that the Western & Atlantic railroad will be disposed of by lease for a term of years. I, of course, shall not undertake to define the terms and conditions which the lease should contain.

Work will be resumed at once. Both sides have promised every effort to make up for the week of idleness. David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions, to whose efforts the settlement largely is credited, appeared in the conference hall in Cardiff after the agreement had been reached and received an enthusiastic welcome.

Mr. Lloyd-George addressed the miners, expressing joy that they had decided to go back to work. "A week of enormous value has been lost to this country," he said. "It is only gradually dawning on you how tremendous is the struggle in which we are engaged. Even now I am not sure we fully realize what we are doing on the whole course of human affairs."

The cost fields of France now are in the hands of the French. It will be generally conceded that the road should be double tracked. The lease should be required to do this and in so doing to reduce the grades and curves so that they shall not exceed given maxima.

The lease should be required to provide ample terminal facilities, including yards, tracks and station buildings which should be constructed on the property. As far as may be practicable, upon the expiration of the next lease the road should be in a condition to be left as it is at present without additional facilities and freight station buildings upon its own property.

It is not to be expected that the Atlantic as an operating machine should be preserved in its present condition. To the extent that this may be done without imposing too great a burden upon the lessee.

Some day tracks may be lowered or elevated. It is true that the state legislature cannot contract away the police power of the state, nevertheless the view of the police power of this property as being owned by the state should be maintained.

No effort should be made to control the rates and fares which the railroad charges. The passenger traffic other than that which the Western and Atlantic railroad carries should be regulated by the general laws of the state just as the railroad is regulated.

Complaint is made in behalf of some of the counties through which the road extends of the fact of litigation affecting the road and its operation and perhaps the state should be permitted to take over the road without compensating advantages. Whether this is a just claim I shall not undertake to say.

For this reason there is always a big demand for competent workers for the laundry, so if you are looking for such a place this July, run a Journal Want Ad, telling of your want work, and if you are first, you will be sure to get it.

Don't delay, but write your Journal Want Ad now, and in a day or two you will be in a good paying place.

Fill British Navy's Bunkers, He Says to Men After They End Strike and Announce Ready to Resume Work

VALUABLE TIME LOST BY WEEK'S IDLENESS

Life of England and Freedom of World Depends on Concentrated and Tireless Effort, Says Minister of Munitions

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, July 21.—The South Wales coal miners have accepted the terms agreed on yesterday and the strike is at an end. Throughout the coal fields there was an overwhelming majority in favor of the settlement.

Work will be resumed at once. Both sides have promised every effort to make up for the week of idleness. David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions, to whose efforts the settlement largely is credited, appeared in the conference hall in Cardiff after the agreement had been reached and received an enthusiastic welcome.

Mr. Lloyd-George addressed the miners, expressing joy that they had decided to go back to work. "A week of enormous value has been lost to this country," he said. "It is only gradually dawning on you how tremendous is the struggle in which we are engaged. Even now I am not sure we fully realize what we are doing on the whole course of human affairs."

The cost fields of France now are in the hands of the French. It will be generally conceded that the road should be double tracked. The lease should be required to do this and in so doing to reduce the grades and curves so that they shall not exceed given maxima.

The lease should be required to provide ample terminal facilities, including yards, tracks and station buildings which should be constructed on the property. As far as may be practicable, upon the expiration of the next lease the road should be in a condition to be left as it is at present without additional facilities and freight station buildings upon its own property.

It is not to be expected that the Atlantic as an operating machine should be preserved in its present condition. To the extent that this may be done without imposing too great a burden upon the lessee.

Some day tracks may be lowered or elevated. It is true that the state legislature cannot contract away the police power of the state, nevertheless the view of the police power of this property as being owned by the state should be maintained.

No effort should be made to control the rates and fares which the railroad charges. The passenger traffic other than that which the Western and Atlantic railroad carries should be regulated by the general laws of the state just as the railroad is regulated.

Complaint is made in behalf of some of the counties through which the road extends of the fact of litigation affecting the road and its operation and perhaps the state should be permitted to take over the road without compensating advantages. Whether this is a just claim I shall not undertake to say.

For this reason there is always a big demand for competent workers for the laundry, so if you are looking for such a place this July, run a Journal Want Ad, telling of your want work, and if you are first, you will be sure to get it.

Don't delay, but write your Journal Want Ad now, and in a day or two you will be in a good paying place.

Russians Lose 66,790 Men Defere Advance of Germans

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR THE "INVENTION BOARD"

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Berlin Vossische Zeitung estimates that the official headquarters reports as a basis the number of Russian prisoners taken since the beginning of the new offensive is 175,000 and 46,790 more.

Official reports indicated no halt in the Teutonic drive at Warsaw, which apparently has as a larger motive the infliction of a crushing blow on the Russian armies. The Russians, however, seem to be showing increasing defensive power as the lines of the attacking hosts draw closer to the Polish capital.

Latest official news shows the German advance from the guns of Novo Georgievsk fortress, the key to the Russian north and only fifteen miles from the city. Further north, the fortress of Ostrołęka has fallen.

In the Baltic provinces the impressive German advances continue. That campaign is interpreted by military observers as intended to cut in on Russian communications and prevent a successful retreat from Warsaw.

Less speed, but none the less steady, is the Austro-German advance through southern Poland. So far as reports indicate the German drive has not yet reached the Lublin region have not been pierced. Continued Italian advances in the Italian front have been reported. Rome's most notable gain being on the Corno d'Aule.

Little, however, is pronounced, is reported from France, Belgium, or the Dardanelles.

The Austro-German strike has ended with the acceptance by the miners of the settlement agreement.

The French report today that further progress on the heights overlooking the center of the Baltic port is being made. The Russians continue to lose ground, but apparently the situation is not yet reached a decisive issue.

The latest important success reported by the German press is the capture of the town of Woyrich, south of Ivangorod. The Russians later delivered vigorous counter attacks there but failed to recover the lost ground.

London Hears German Drive on Warsaw Has Slowed Up
LONDON, July 21.—Rumors that Warsaw has fallen are in circulation here. The French report today that further progress on the heights overlooking the center of the Baltic port is being made.

(Continued on Last Page, Column 2.)

Dalton Shows Increase

DALTON, Ga., July 21.—The city tax digest for 1915 has been completed, the totals showing property valued at $2,428,146. The increase over the re-

ave

M. RICH & BROS. CO. M. RICH & BROS. CO. M. RICH & BROS. CO.

ave

starts 9 a.m.

Sale of itude!

nder the t With a
PRICE

? Simply this—we wind
th inventory August 1st

are involved

all go out thus:

50	$10.75
----	---------

.50 to $19.75
Dresses at $6.95

on off to seashore or mountain pleased to choose from these excreations. Many of them are

Chieflly white, with a spring-summer colors. Nets, laces, embroideries and other sheer fab-

resses at $12.95

12

57 Blouses at 95
ing lines of our finest blouses that were $5

were $5.95
voiles.
were $6.50 & $7
e, voiles and handkerchief linens.

st midsummer styles; most of $5 waists in all—they won't

2.95

Only $5 or $5.95
White Skirt, Now
$3.45

—waffle checks
—white linens, etc.

skirts as well. The latter are nagen, rose, tan and oxblood.
and $5.95; choice $3.45.

RICH & BROS. CO.

A BUNCH OF BOOSTERS from Coffee county snapped in front of the Hotel Ansley Wednesday morning just before they departed for Athens. Prominent citizens of Douglas, Ga., are in the party, which is touring in automobiles through north and middle Georgia.

FORMER MACON WOMAN MUST SERVE JAIL TERM

Mrs. Minnie Flowers Pleads
Guilty as Accessory to Husband's Murder

(By Associated Press.)
LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 21.—Walter Cooper, a prominent Natchez, Miss., contractor was sentenced here today to eight years in the penitentiary, and Mrs. Minnie Flowers to one year, in connection with the killing on the night of June 13, of Walters Flowers, the woman's husband. Cooper pleaded guilty to manslaughter and Mrs. Flowers entered a similar plea as an accessory. Elmo Ferguson, Cooper's brother-in-law, received a sentence of six months in jail, and Jim Posey, a negro, a sentence of ten days as accessories to the crime. Flowers was shot and killed by Cooper while riding in a wagon with the four defendants and three of Cooper's children. The body was buried in a levee and was not found until about two weeks later. Mrs. Flowers, who formerly lived in Macon, Ga., said she had been separated from her husband and that just before the killing he threatened her with a knife.

PROTECTION OF THE STATE RAILROAD IS URGED BY WIMBISH

(Continued from Page One.)
The rental for a short series of years. Since, however, the expenditures required will add directly to the value of the property, as an operating machine, the benefit of which will accrue to the lessee much more than the contribution from the state. Whatever percentage of this cost the state should assume can be allayed by a deduction in the amount of the normal annual rental spread over a period of from five to ten years. In arriving at the valuation upon which the state should receive a fair return by way of rental, there are to be considered (a) the present physical value of the property; (b) the valuation based upon the fair earning power; and (c) the prospective value that will likely accrue during the currency of the lease. If the lease is for a long period a flat annual rental for the entire term might not be altogether fair to either party, while a progressive increase in the amount arbitrarily arrived at might be lacking in the same quality. Possibly the situation may be accommodated in another manner. The state could determine what might be considered the normal annual rental value of the property based not alone upon the present value, but also upon the added value that will accrue from double tracking and increased earnings for the first period of say 10 years. From this normal rental there might be deducted during the first five or ten years the percentage of the cost to be allowed by the state for double tracking. After ten or twenty years there might be added to the normal annual rental a tax upon the gross or net earnings of the line. The road, and such readjustment might take place at successive periods thereafter.

WANT FOREST RESERVES IN ALASKA PRESERVED

(By Associated Press.)
SEATTLE, Wash., July 21.—Henry S. Graves, chief of the United States forestry service, is on his way to Alaska to collect data to support the forestry department in opposing abolishment of any of the Alaskan forest reserves. Graves called last night for Ketchikan whence tours of inspection will be made during the next six weeks. He wants to get first hand knowledge of such lands as can be rightfully thrown out of the reserve limits, he said before calling. "I also shall collect data to combat any such bill as that introduced last winter in congress to abolish the Ketchikan reserve. Mr. Graves defended the continuance of the reserve as necessary to insure a supply of lumber as the country developed."

NEGRO IS SHOT DEAD BY SHELLMAN FARMER

SHELLMAN, Ga., July 21.—As a result of a dispute over some singing Tuesday afternoon, Casper Jackson, a negro, was shot and killed by a white man, both living on the farm of Douglas M. B. Thion. It is reported that the killing was self-defense, as the negro was advancing upon Thion and was warned to stop, but failed to heed the warning.

HERE'S HOME OFFERED TO NICE LITTLE GIRL

Alabama Family, Lonely,
Wants to Adopt a Child of
Eight Years
With his wife, who is not strong, mourning the death of their only child, A. C. White, of Hightower, Ala., just across the Georgia line of Carroll county, writes to The Journal that "we would be glad to give a home to a nice girl eight or ten years old. We would educate her and love and keep her. Is there any little girl who wants to go to this home to cheer the heart of Mrs. White, who, the husband says, is very lonely?"

PARIS JOURNAL REPORTED SOLD FOR $4,400,000

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, July 21.—It is understood the Paris Journal has been sold by the Lefebvre family, which has owned it since it was founded twenty years ago, to a syndicate headed by Francis de Wendel, deputy for Meurthe-et-Moselle. The price is said to have been $4,400,000.

COFFEE COUNTY BOOSTERS PASS THROUGH ATLANTA

"Seeing Georgia" Tourists
Spent Night Here, Leaving
Wednesday for Athens

Eighty-five Coffee county boosters arrived in Atlanta in automobiles Tuesday afternoon in the course of a "seeing Georgia" tour. The pace-making car arrived at the Ansley hotel shortly after 3 o'clock, with R. A. Smith, secretary of the Douglas chamber of commerce, Councilman C. N. Baker and his wife and son and daughter as passengers. No set program of entertainment was arranged for the visitors, as they preferred to be free to see their friends and to do as they pleased in Atlanta. They left Wednesday for Athens, intending to visit Lawrenceville, Winder, Jefferson, Athens and Monticello before night, arriving at Eatonton at dark. T. A. Wallace, mayor of Douglas; J. C. Brewer, president of the Douglas chamber of commerce; Prof. G. E. Elinor, farm demonstration agent; J. N. McDonald, and others were in the party. The boosters expect to return to Douglas Friday afternoon.

Bankruptcy Petition

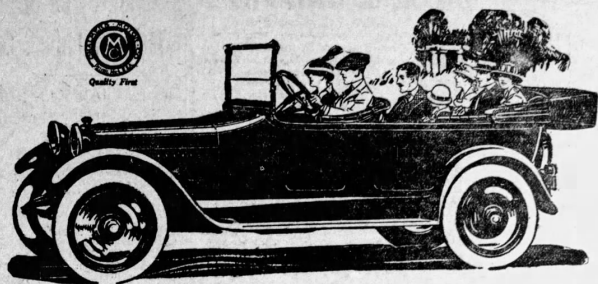

A. S. Chomsky, merchant, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition on Wednesday, listing liabilities of $1,722 and assets of $12.00.

JUDGE MOSES WRIGHT HEADS ROME CHAMBER

ROME, Ga., July 21.—Judge Moses Wright has been elected as president of the Rome chamber of commerce to succeed T. E. Grafton, who resigned to devote his entire time to his duties as chief engineer of the Dixie highway. Judge Wright states he will devote as much time to the organization as his duties on the bench will permit.

TRUST POSLAM TO HEAL THE WORST ECZEMA

Poslam deserves the confidence of all who seek a remedy for Eczema and itching skin. Not only does it possess known merit and ability to heal, but it is absolutely harmless and no injury can possibly result from its use. Has eradicated thousands of stubborn Eczema cases, many of years standing, and should repeat its successful work for you; bringing immediate relief, stopping all itching and showing improvement every day. Use Poslam for any surface disorder. If ordinary toilet soaps irritate, try Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam and superior for daily use, Toilet and Bath. For samples, send stamps to Emergency Laboratories, 25 West 23rd St., New York City. Sold by all druggists. (Adv.)

Chalmers Six-48 $1550

This Chalmers Owner Did Not Know
That He Was Writing This Advertisement

He paid $1650 for the 5-passenger car, about which he is so enthusiastic. This same car with 7-passenger body now sells for $1550. The letter published below was received in the ordinary course of business on May 22, 1915.

We are publishing it without a change.

New York, May 21, 1915.

It purrs.

As for the self-starter, I never saw a better one. It doesn't go off with a loud, grating noise. It does not whirr and buzz, but just slips into action with scarcely a sound.

As I am careful to give the car all the gasoline, oil, water and grease that it needs, it "keeps going" every minute. It is far from being a greedy consumer of gasoline and it demands a most moderate allowance of oil.

Rides the "Bumps"

Will it ride the "bumps"? It certainly will and does. There is a joy in riding in a car that travels over cobblestones, over rough, rocky roads, over bumpy places, without making the riders bounce up and down like jumping jacks.

And finally, what about the Chalmers service? Well, I know of no way to improve it. I have not been in need of repairs—but the few little things I have needed have been given such courteous and prompt attention that I can appreciate why other owners give so much praise to the way their requests and complaints are attended to.

During the past month I have made two tours in New England. One covered the cities of Connecticut, the other took in a dozen or more of the Massachusetts towns. I averaged over one hundred miles a day. I drove the car myself.

An Owner's Answers

Here are my answers:
I consider the Chalmers Car at $1,650, the cheapest buy on the market. In appearance, equipment, make-up, construction, power, flexibility, and comfort, it is, to my way of thinking, superior to cars selling at several hundred dollars more. I have had owners of higher priced cars ride with me and every man has expressed his amazement at the ability of the Chalmers Company to put out such a remarkable car at such a very low price.

I never have to show off my car to my friends. They do the talking for me. They say, "Isn't it a beautiful car?"—what fine lines. One of my associates in business said, "It represents a combination of beauty and evident strength such as I never have seen in any other auto at anywhere near the price. There is nothing cheap about one little item."

Comfort for the Wife

Regarding the matter of comfort in riding, my wife could not answer that question. She selected the left hand side of the tonneau seat as her "place" in the car and from the first ride of a few miles, to one of 625 miles that we have just finished, she has been thoroughly comfortable and declares that even a long ride does not tire her.

The quietness of the engine is a constant surprise.

Special Features—Chalmers Six-48

Full 48 h. p. motor—Big 7-passenger Body. 126" wheel base—34" x 4 1/2" tires. Nobby tread on rear wheels. Entz non-stallable starter. 48" vanadium steel rear springs—extra strong torque tube. Equipment complete even to Yale lock to prevent theft of car.

Chalmers Motor Company
Detroit, U. S. A.
"Let your next car be a Chalmers"

Advertising in the Journal Sells the Goods

EISEMAN BROS. INC.

11-13-15-17 WHITEHALL ST.

Men's $7.50 Panama
Cloth Suits, now $2.95

Young Men's light, medium and heavy Suits, worth up to $20, now $5.00

Choice of all Men's $15 and $20 Suits, now $7.00

Choice of the house, Men's Suits, worth up to $45, now $16.00

Men's 50c Nainsook Shirts and Drawers, now 19c

Genuine B. V. D. Shirts and Drawers, now 39c

Men's $2 and $2.50 Negligee Shirts, now 95c

Any $3, $3.50 and $4 Straw Hats, now 95c

JUST FOUR DAYS MORE

Positively Everything Must and Will Be Sold at Some Price.

Positively the four most furious selling days ever seen in the South.

We end our business career with a mighty triumph and a whirlwind finish

No Mail Orders
No Telephone Orders
Don't Expect Regular Service.
Come and Help Yourself

Choice of all Men's $25 and $30 Suits, now $11.00

Boys' 50c and $1 Underwear, Pajamas and Waif Pants, now 19c

Hess $5, $6 and $7 Low Shoes, now $1.95

Children's $1.50 and $2 Patent Sandals, now 59c

Boys' $1.50 and $2 Wool Hats, now 29c

Children's $2.50 and $3 Beaver and Felt Hats, now 59c

Boys' $7.50, $10 and $12 Suits, now $3.95

Men's $1 Palm Beach and Silk Hats and Caps, now 45c

Boys' and Girls' $3 and $3.50 Shoes, now $1.59

DR. E. G. GRIFFIN'S
 Gate, City Dental Rooms,
 Over Brown & Allen's Drug Store,
 Entrance 5 West Alabama, Corner
 Alabama and Whitehall. Lowest prices for best expert dental work.
 ALL our work is guaranteed.
 DR. E. G. GRIFFIN,
 personally in charge.
 Lady Attendant,
 Bell Phone Main 1708.

EDUCATIONAL. ATLANTA LAW SCHOOL
 Faculty of leading and successful lawyers and judges. Access to courts. Offices a two years' course leading to degree of LL.M. Diploma admits to the bar without examination. For Catalogue and information, address:
HAMILTON DOUGLAS,
 ATLANTA, GA.
Classes At Night

EMORY UNIVERSITY
 Offers full courses in the three departments of Liberal Arts, Theology and Medicine, leading to the degrees of A. B., Ph. D., B. S., M. A., B. D., and M. D. For bulletins giving full information, write to:
WALKER WHITE, Sec'y-Bursar, Atlanta, Ga.

GEORGIA MILITARY COLLEGE
 Honorable Mention by U. S. War Department
 Commended for Military excellence, efficiency and equipment. The college is housed in famous old state capitol building, repulse in historic associations and inspirations. Military barracks, under personal supervision of the President. The college has steam heat, electric lights, and cold showers. Modern laboratories, library and school equipment. Active U. S. Army officer in charge of military instruction. Daily drills in open air. Winters mild, climate salubrious, free from malaria. Faculty of boy training experts give individual attention to each student. Daily. U. S. G. A. and Western Athletic Association indoor and outdoor champions. Outfitted and equipped with experienced coaches. Championship football and basketball teams. Full term opens Sept. 15. Dates reasonable. Bursar, campus limited. For new illustrated catalogue address:
COL. O. R. HORTON, A.B., PRES. DEPT. B. MILLEDGEVILLE, GA.

MISS MYRNA SHARLOW
 Prima donna soprano, who will appear in recital at Montague Assembly Saturday, July 24, and will sing at the services Sunday, July 25.

Miss Sharlow has sung leading roles in the Chicago Opera Company, the Boston Opera Company, Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London, Anglo-American Opera and in Paris. Music has been sung in the most famous of the world's great theatres. You'll enjoy the cool mountain air, delightful scenery and environs.

$6.75 ROUND TRIP FROM ATLANTA
 Tickets on sale for any W. & A. R. R. train Saturday, the 24th. Return limit Monday, July 26, 1915. If you would like to spend a week or a month up on the mountain, purchase a ticket with a longer limit.

TICKET OFFICES 1-2 Peachtree Street.
 Pullman space, schedule, tickets and information gladly furnished.

J. A. THOMAS, C. P. A., 1203 Healey Building. Phone 797 83.

MOUNTAIN EXCURSION
 To Western North Carolina Resorts
FRIDAY, JULY 23
 Asheville Brevard $5.00 Hendersonville Swannanoa
 Black Mount'n $5.50 Lake Toxaway
 Hot Springs $5.50 Wayneville
TICKETS GOOD FIVE DAYS
 CORRESPONDING FARES TO OTHER RESORTS
 Sold for all Regular Trains July 23, and Good Returning Until July 28.
 R. L. BAYLOR, D. P. A., No. 1 Peachtree

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

SUMMER FARES
 Via Savannah and Steamship
TYBEE Where Ocean Breezes Blow
AND OTHER RESORT PLACES
 ROUND TRIP FROM ATLANTA, GA.
 NEW YORK $38.25
 BOSTON 42.25
 BALTIMORE 29.25
 PHILADELPHIA 34.05
 TYBEE, GA. (Season Tickets) $11.80
 TYBEE, GA. (Ten Day Tickets) 10.00
 TYBEE, GA. (Week End Tickets) 8.50
 ATLANTIC BEACH, FLA. (Season Tickets) $14.25
 ATLANTIC BEACH, FLA. (Ten Day Tickets) 10.00
 ATLANTIC BEACH, FLA. (Week End Tickets) 9.00
 Fares to other places quoted on application. Tickets via Savannah and steamships include meals and berth on ship while at anchor.
 Double daily trains Atlanta to Savannah. Solid steel equipment on day train—sleeping cars on night trains.
 Ticket Offices, Fourth National Bank Building, Corner Peachtree and Marietta Streets, and Terminal Station. Phone Main 400.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY
 The Right Way Service.

ATTORNEYS FOR BECKER AWAIT GOVERNOR'S ACTION

Plea for Life Is Made in 15,000 Word Statement Denying Guilt

NEW YORK, July 21.—Counsel for Charles Becker awaited today the result of Governor Whitman's action on the plea for his execution on July 28, the plea made by his attorneys, the result of which will determine whether Becker's plea, sent to the governor at Albany last night, included a long statement of his version of the facts leading up to the murder. In this statement Becker denied complicity in the murder and said State Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, now dead, had told Becker he had $15,000 invested in Rose's gambling house and that when Rose had begun to make public statements about the raid on his place, Sullivan exacted a promise from Becker to keep Sullivan's name out of it. Becker said he had kept his promise up to the time of making his plea for executive clemency. Governor Whitman today said he would make no statement until he had time to examine the document.

Becker's statement, made no disclosure of police graft, but gave an account of his movements on the night of the murder. Martin T. Manton, of Becker's counsel, has announced proceedings will be started in a day or two in application for a new trial for Becker on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. The nature of the evidence was not disclosed. It was reported that friends of Sullivan have offered to make affidavits substantiating in part the story Becker told.

W. Bourke Cockran, one of Becker's attorneys who prepared a portion of the statement sent to the governor, said he had been decided to take this action to avoid a delay in first appealing to a supreme court judge for a new trial. "Becker is ready to die. He does not ask favors of anyone, but he wants to prove his innocence," Mr. Cockran said.

BECKER'S PETITION.
 Becker's statement in part follows: "Although it involves the unprecedented proceeding of asking his excellency, Charles S. Whitman, governor of the state, to review, reverse and in some respects condemn the conduct of the state, I, Charles S. Whitman, district attorney of New York county, in prosecuting an indictment for murder against me, I ask your excellency to review respectfully on the records submitted to Mr. Justice Hughes to the effect that the capital sentence pronounced on me.

"I ask your excellency further, in the light of certain facts, now disclosed for the first time, to forbid my execution on the ground that my guilt of this murder is not established so clearly as to justify the taking of a human life. "I am, sir, let me say that I do not ask any indulgence at your hands. "If I have actually committed the crime of which I have been found guilty no criminal ever went to execution more thoroughly deserving of the punishment inflicted on him."

Becker explains his associations with Rose by saying that his "only interest was in making Rose's usefulness as a stool pigeon in obtaining evidence against gambling houses. He is of the partnership existing between Rose and Rosenthal in a gambling house until after they became enemies. It was with this gambling house that Becker connects the name of Dr. T. J. Sullivan. Becker says Sullivan had loaned Rosenthal money with which to equip the house.

Rosenthal, Becker charged that Becker was the real owner of a chattel mortgage on the gambler's furniture. Becker declares that Sullivan, fearing Rosenthal's campaign, called Becker into conference. Which Rose attended, and said Rosenthal must be induced to leave.

Becker declared this could not be done, as it was necessary to his position in the police department that Rosenthal's statements be faced. To this he said Sullivan replied: "Where a fire of this kind is started there is no knowing where it will reach. Rosenthal has already been very close to me politically and personally. Any secret investigations of elections by grand juries have always been sources of great trouble."

Becker replied that so far as he was concerned, Rosenthal's disappearance would be fatal if it would be suspected that Becker had conspired at it. He said Sullivan expressed warm appreciation of his attitude, and added: "I would give $5,000—yes, $5,000—to have prevented this thing or stop it now if I could."

Becker says he did not pay much attention to the remark, but that on the way home Rose said to him: "I wonder if the big fellow really has that much money at hand if he needs to use it?" Rose added something to the effect that he (Rose) could easily raise any money needed to get Rosenthal whereupon Becker declared that this must not be done.

As to the actual killing of Rosenthal, Becker declares: "I know nothing whatever—I did never know anything about that dreadful crime."

The former lieutenant says that his counsel have been diligently searching for proof that Rose was entrusted with a sum of money by Dr. T. J. Sullivan. It is difficult to obtain this evidence, he asserts, as the information only could come from the gamblers who contributed the money.

Becker says that just before his arrest he was told that "Big Tim" was nearly insane about Rosenthal's murder; that he was afraid Becker would be arrested because of the newspaper talk and wanted to be assured that if Becker were taken into custody Becker would say nothing about Sullivan's sending for him in regard to Rosenthal opening his gambling house.

MASON IS BOUND OVER FOR CONFESED THEFTS

Bond for "King of Yegg" Fixed at $3,000 in Each of Eight Cases

Harry Mason, self-styled King of the Yeggs, was bound over by Recorder Johnson for eight cases of confessed burglary Wednesday morning. His bond was fixed at $3,000 in each case. In addition, the Recorder's court ordered that he be placed under guard.

Detectives offered as evidence in court a signed confession by Mason in which he recites his career from the age of thirteen, when he cracked a safe at the Bay View, Fla., to his latest haul on Decatur street, a period covering about ten years and including robberies in as many big cities amounting to over $25,000.

Mason admitted the name he signed to the confession is not his own. The recorder he presented the same delinquent front and readiness to talk that has characterized him ever since his arrest last Saturday.

"Where are you from?" asked Judge Johnson. "Missouri," replied Mason, and grinned. "Well, I'll have to send you to the tower for dinner today," continued the judge.

"I hope it's better grub than they give at the barracks," said the youthful yegg. "And this bond?" remarked the judge. "You can make it, can't you?" "Sure, if you'll give me thirty-six hours' freedom in Atlanta," said Mason. "They ought to give you 100 years the judge told him."

"I've got ninety-nine coming to me," Mason answered confidently, "but I won't spend 'em in jail."

Mason gave impromptu little lecture to the court in the art of safe-cracking, explaining just how he used the "touch system," and when it failed, how he knocked off the knob of a safe, bored a hole, poured in the nitroglycerine, and cracked it.

The eight cases for which he is held are: Phelan's Pharmacy, 25 Gordon street, West End, which he robbed of $180; T. W. McCoy's, 506 Decatur street, where he got supper one night; J. D. Simpkins, 586 Decatur street, where he paused for a 3 a. m. breakfast one morning; Samuel Watkins on Peters street, looted of a watch and $100; and the case of the late Dr. T. J. Sullivan, robbed of $75 in cash and $30 worth of old coins; G. G. Dunn, Marietta and Ashby street, tobacco and cigars; J. D. Bonner, Forterdale, Ga., who awoke one morning to find his pants had been taken from the foot of his bed, the key to his store taken from his pants, and $100 worth of valuable goods taken from the store.

TWO EMPLOYEES OF BEAVERS CLUB FINED

Chief Beavers Is Chief Witness in Case Involving Illegal Sale of Liquor

E. R. Mahoney and J. R. Flourney, employees of the Beavers club, were each fined $100 each and held to the grand jury under $200 bond by Recorder Johnson Tuesday afternoon for violating 1498 of the city code.

Chief Beavers testified that he himself saw a drink of whiskey served over the bar of the club to a member of one of the bottles belonging to another member, for which the purchaser gave twenty-five cents and two coupons.

A case made by the chief against the Atlanta club was postponed, when it was stated the club has ceased to operate. Attorney Thomas B. Felder filed a petition for a receiver for the club in the superior court Monday and Judge George L. Bell appointed Dr. George M. Brown, president of the club, Tuesday the treasurer of the club, R. Moore, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court, and Referee James H. Adams named Harry Dodd receiver.

AD-MEN WILL DISCUSS BILL ON ADVERTISING

Election of Officers and Other Matters at Thursday Night Meeting

The annual meeting of the Ad Men's club of Atlanta has been called for Thursday evening, July 29, at the Ansley hotel, where a special dinner will be served by the club complimentary to its members. The meeting is called promptly at 7 o'clock and every member is expected to be present.

The annual election of officers will be held. President St. Elmo Massengale retiring after a year of energetic and effective service. Report will be made upon the recent trip to Chicago and number of matters in which the club is interested will be discussed, among them the bill to require good advertising now pending before the representatives of the advertising industry report from the judiciary committee.

The program committee is making arrangements to secure a speaker of unusual prominence for the evening.

ROTARY CLUB INDORSES BOND ISSUE FOR GRADY

Dr. Phinizy Calhoun Desires Hospital's Needs at Meeting Tuesday Afternoon

The Rotary club of Atlanta, went on record Tuesday afternoon, as favoring the proposed bond issue for the improvement of Grady hospital. This action followed a speech by Dr. Phinizy Calhoun at the Piedmont hotel to the club members, in which he described the needs of the hospital.

Dr. Calhoun said, in part: "Built some twenty years ago by popular subscriptions and given to the city of Atlanta, the Grady hospital has never received a single donation from the city treasury other than what was required for its upkeep and the $100,000 bond money of the 1910 issue.

The capacity of Grady hospital is 184 beds, yet last night 23 patients were crowded into its buildings and hallways, on cots, stretchers and beds. "Every day the charity of the city is turned away for lack of accommodation."

"The institution is efficiently and conscientiously governed by a splendid board of trustees not concerned or handicapped with politics, and Dr. Summerville, its superintendent, is one of the officials who should be retained at all costs."

"Well, I'll have to send you to the tower for dinner today," continued the judge. "I hope it's better grub than they give at the barracks," said the youthful yegg. "And this bond?" remarked the judge. "You can make it, can't you?" "Sure, if you'll give me thirty-six hours' freedom in Atlanta," said Mason.

"They ought to give you 100 years the judge told him."

"I've got ninety-nine coming to me," Mason answered confidently, "but I won't spend 'em in jail."

Mason gave impromptu little lecture to the court in the art of safe-cracking, explaining just how he used the "touch system," and when it failed, how he knocked off the knob of a safe, bored a hole, poured in the nitroglycerine, and cracked it.

The eight cases for which he is held are: Phelan's Pharmacy, 25 Gordon street, West End, which he robbed of $180; T. W. McCoy's, 506 Decatur street, where he got supper one night; J. D. Simpkins, 586 Decatur street, where he paused for a 3 a. m. breakfast one morning; Samuel Watkins on Peters street, looted of a watch and $100; and the case of the late Dr. T. J. Sullivan, robbed of $75 in cash and $30 worth of old coins; G. G. Dunn, Marietta and Ashby street, tobacco and cigars; J. D. Bonner, Forterdale, Ga., who awoke one morning to find his pants had been taken from the foot of his bed, the key to his store taken from his pants, and $100 worth of valuable goods taken from the store.

Pre-Inventory Sales Throughout the Store: Share and Save.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

Showing Simultaneously with New York the Cleverest Conceptions in the

New Midsummer Hats

--Satin Hats --Satin & Velvet --Uncut Velvet --Satin & Hemp

It's the beginning of a new season in millinery—a season of white satin hats with black velvet brims; white hats poised with white wings; white velvets with touches of black silk or satin.

The creations of New York's master-milliners are here—and never yet have styles been so cool-looking and becoming. Best of all are the modest prices:

$5 $7.50 $10 $12.50 $15

Smart New Satin Turbans $5 to $10

They are advance styles, but cleverly contrived for present wear. A new note in the millinery symphony that has caught the ear of the style-wise. You can be among the first to show the most recent approved millinery modes. Over 20 styles.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

The PLAZA HOTEL
 NEW YORK
 FIFTH AVENUE AND FIFTY-NINTH ST.
 The coolest hotel in New York. Overlooking Central Park. Within easy distance of all theatres and shops. Your address known the world over while you stop at the Plaza.
 OUTDOOR TERRACE AND SUMMER GARDEN
 Special Dining Features
 Single Rooms with Bath, $3.50 up Double Rooms with Bath, $5.00 up
 To reserve rooms or for any further information address FRED STURDY, Managing Director

WEEK-END AND SUNDAY FARES
 Indian Springs - $2.05 $1.00
 Tallulah Falls - $3.35 $2.00
 Warm Springs - $2.20 $1.00
 Corresponding fares to St. Simons, Atlantic Beach and Western North Carolina.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Pre-Inventory Sales Throughout the Store: Share and Save.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

Showing Simultaneously with New York the Cleverest Conceptions in the

New Midsummer Hats

--Satin Hats --Satin & Velvet --Uncut Velvet --Satin & Hemp

It's the beginning of a new season in millinery—a season of white satin hats with black velvet brims; white hats poised with white wings; white velvets with touches of black silk or satin.

The creations of New York's master-milliners are here—and never yet have styles been so cool-looking and becoming. Best of all are the modest prices:

$5 $7.50 $10 $12.50 $15

Smart New Satin Turbans $5 to $10

They are advance styles, but cleverly contrived for present wear. A new note in the millinery symphony that has caught the ear of the style-wise. You can be among the first to show the most recent approved millinery modes. Over 20 styles.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

"When Good Fellows Get Together"

You will find fresh-rolled cigarettes of deliciously mellow "Bull" Durham in evidence at banquets, club smokers and other social gatherings of men of wealth, prominence and experienced tastes. In the fragrant smoke of this mild, delightful tobacco formality gives way to congenial good-fellowship. If you would be fashionable, expert in the company of connoisseurs, you "roll your own"—and your tobacco is "Bull" Durham.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM

SMOKING TOBACCO

To millions of experienced smokers there is no other tobacco fragrance comparable to the wonderful, unique, mellow-sweet flavor of "Bull" Durham—no other cigarettes so fresh, tasty and satisfying as those they roll for themselves with this golden-brown, bright Virginia-North Carolina tobacco.

Roll a "Bull" Durham cigarette today—you will experience a distinctive form of tobacco enjoyment.

FREE An Illustrated Booklet, showing correct way to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes, and a package of cigarette papers, will both be mailed, free, to any address in U. S. on request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Ask for FREE package of papers with each 5c pack

GENUINE DURHAM

Smoking Tobacco

GENUINE DURHAM

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

FORMER ATLANTA DOCTOR WITH RUSSIAN HOSPITAL

Dr. Walpole Brewer, former house physician of the Hotel Ansley and one of the club members, is assigned to a hospital on the Russian frontier. He was said to be in the best of health.

The meeting was held at the East Lake club house, an interesting place was read on modern fireproof construction by Stratton Hard. One new member was admitted to the club. Grover Middlebrooks, of the law firm of Bryan and Middlebrooks.

"Law Bros. for Quality"

We've Cut
The Price

The Price on Palm Beach Suits
Included in this Discount Sale are Genuine Palm Beach Garments, in all shades and all sizes. All fresh, clean merchandise. If you're needing one or more Suits this is your real opportunity. The prices range from

$5.50 to $7.50
Law Bros. Co.
10 Whitehall Street

Company

Company
Paris

ales.
refor
RE

Were $7.50
75 Are

ne Georgette crepes so clearaway wave has
esh in their individual
sand, rose, maize and 16.50 are$10.00

Drawaway

gowns in plain shades
are now $7.50 and $10

a Plunge

$2.50
12.75 Now $7.50
hing Shoes

were $1.00 now 75c
 were $2.25, Now $1.00
per set at $1.50

Company

19

TODAY'S EVENING STORY

Peaceful Intervention
(Copyright, 1915, by W. W. Weller.)

MRS. DIMICK sat quietly reading at her bedroom window. The window was open and the thin pink-flowered curtains stirred in the gentlest of May breezes. It was a warm evening and Mrs. Dimick was comfortably clad in a long white dressing sack which was as near to diaphanous as she ever affected. The light was still clear on the printed page and Mrs. Dimick, who at seventy-one still loved the romantic, was just at the crisis of the latest and most fascinating best seller, when the impetuous slamming of the screen door downstairs interrupted her pleasantly thrilled emotions.

She had long outgrown such foolishness as nerves, but there was only one person she knew who ever allowed the screen door to bang in that manner. No one within hearing distance would ever have suspected there was a screen door by the way Harriet Ketcham closed it. She appreciated the fact that screen doors have springs which easily got out of order and were hard to replace. But that other girl, that young Daisy Merritt person, had no consideration for anything or anybody. It was she who had banged the screen door, and it was her hard, shrill little voice which now ascended from the veranda below.

"Oh, Mr. Bailey, I didn't know you were here!"

Mrs. Dimick carefully noted her page and closed the book, keeping her thumb between the pages. It was utterly useless to try to read when Daisy Merritt was talking.

"Isn't this the loveliest evening?" cried the shrill, hard little voice, and there came the sound of somebody appropriating a position which somebody else had politely relinquished.

"Yes, it's a nice evening," Mrs. Dimick remarked mentally. "Why in the world couldn't she let them enjoy it in peace?"

Mrs. Dimick felt irritated. She knew exactly what was going on downstairs upon her own veranda. It was a spacious veranda, charmingly conducive to courtship, and she had from the beginning hoped that Albert Bailey's attentions to Harriet Ketcham would progress actually to the point of a proposal. Harriet was in love with him and would accept him, but there had arisen a complication in the shape of this young Daisy Merritt person. She had a fondness for Mr. Bailey and she meant that he should not only provide it but reciprocate it.

"I ought never to have taken her to board," regretted Mrs. Dimick. "But I thought she'd be company for Harriet, and they are both teachers. Harriet's quiet and this Daisy person is lively."

That's not the only difference between them, either. Harriet is just like her mother, and her mother was as fine a woman as ever lived. She had a hard time of it one way and another, because she never dared speak up for herself. Bill Ketcham treated the life out of her. And Harriet hasn't seen any happiness to speak of. About all she's known so far is study and work. I had an idea when this Albert Bailey began to come here to see her that maybe things were brightening up for her. But along comes this young Daisy person. That was my fault. I had no business to take her."

Mrs. Dimick meditated deeply. Downstairs there was much merriment. Daisy Merritt had told a funny story and Mr. Bailey was laughing over it. Harriet, too, was laughing, but feebly.

"She's trying to make the best of it," sighed Mrs. Dimick. "But laughing at somebody else's wit isn't going to do her any good. Harriet can think deep enough for anybody, but she can't laugh. She looks well enough, but she isn't entertaining. Daisy can talk for three. She can keep you amused, I'll admit, and she's kind of pretty when her tongue's running. Otherwise she isn't so very noticeable. But as Albert Bailey never sees her when she isn't talking she's dangerous. More than that, she's bent on making trouble. Harriet will sit dumb as a doornail and watch Albert being walked off without saying a word. But her heart will break all the same. If I could only get rid of Daisy Merritt!" she concluded, shaking her head.

"There's no way. I can't keep Harriet without keeping Daisy, too. And in three weeks school will end and it will be all over as far as Harriet is concerned. She's going to another place to teach. But Daisy is coming back here. Mr. Bailey will be here, of course. There you are. Everything seems to be for Daisy and against Harriet except me. I wish I could do something. I wonder."

Mrs. Dimick laid aside her book. It was too dark to read now and, anyway, printed romance would equal in intensity the awful little drama which was being played there on the veranda below with the even series of the birds as orchestra, moonbeams for footlights and all the accents of the earth flowers. Daisy's heart on to, ultimate joy or woe. She put her head out of the window and listened. Daisy was telling her something exciting experience she had and from Mr. Bailey's exclamation it was too see that he was deeply interested. Harriet did not say a word. Mrs. Dimick grew warm with indignation. Not knowing what would happen in the moonlight, especially as Daisy had on her new embroidered velvet. She went to the door and put a stop to it herself, said Mrs. Dimick to herself resolutely.

Her appearance upon the veranda

GUESS IF THEY ARE MARRIED

OLD NICODEMUS NIMBLE

TOM EVIDENTLY HAS MUCH TO LEARN ABOUT GIVING!

AT THE FRONT

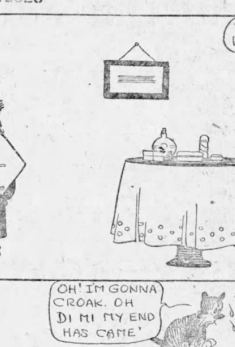

BY POP

BY POP

KEEPING UP WITH THE JO NESSES

A WONDERFUL LADY

BY WELLS

STELLA AND GERTIE

STELLA MUST HAVE TALKED HIS ARM OFF-- IF WE ARE TO BELIEVE GERT

BY "BERT"

BY SINNCTT

DICKY DIPPY'S DIARY

WEDNESDAY

BY SINNCTT

BY SINNCTT

BY SINNCTT

created something more than an interruption. Mr. Bailey was disturbed. Daisy impatient, Harriet relieved. Mrs. Dimick's motive was not apparent in her stout, easy old figure, her large, serene, amiable countenance. She had foreseen that the scene would lead to the large porch chair. Harriet, quite withdrawn, a corner of the settee, Daisy the hammock, and there, for the center of the stage. All three young people rose as Mrs. Dimick, gently and suggestively closed the screen door behind her.

"Dog! let me disturb you," she said kindly. But when Mr. Bailey offered his chair she dropped into it gratefully. Mr. Bailey took another, which Daisy impatiently, Harriet relieved. Mrs. Dimick's motive was not apparent in her stout, easy old figure, her large, serene, amiable countenance. She had foreseen that the scene would lead to the large porch chair. Harriet, quite withdrawn, a corner of the settee, Daisy the hammock, and there, for the center of the stage. All three young people rose as Mrs. Dimick, gently and suggestively closed the screen door behind her.

"Dog! let me disturb you," she said kindly. But when Mr. Bailey offered eagerly listening to Mrs. Dimick. The light was full on her face, which, as if to do its part, glorified her. Here was the kind of face which looks best in plenty of light—strong, clear, essentially feminine. And Mr. Bailey had to see her.

Mrs. Dimick, fired by success, waxed venturesome. Having captured Mr. Bailey's interest she labored to keep it. Seventy-two years of varied experience had given her vast resources. In this hammock, indeed, because unheeded, she had had no entertainment for audience as the young man in the gray suit. She liked young men; she particularly liked this young man.

But she did not forget her goal. Cautiously, in proper time, she turned the thought of her wit upon Harriet. Without appearing unpleasantly familiar or personal, she showed up the heat of Harriet's persevering, earnest effort. Harriet, until Harriet, feeling so much friendly influence like a tenderly enfolded mantle about her, was led to speak of herself. Whereupon Mr. Bailey was also led to speak of himself. The conversation, drifting subtly away from Mrs. Dimick, became almost an exchange of confidences between Harriet and Mr. Bailey.

It was then Mrs. Dimick rose gently and with all her old woman's dignity bade them good night. Mr. Bailey sprang up to offer her some further person about, not to say a fourth. An hour later she climbed to her room. Daisy was safe ahead. Below on the veranda Mr. Bailey was taking a prolonged farewell of Harriet Ketcham. Mrs. Dimick reached up to draw down the shade she heard the sound of a kiss.

"Good night again, dearest," said Mr. Bailey.

"Thank goodness," she said.

Why Not Let The Girls Work?

By Edna K. Wooley

"It seems to me that girls are degenerating," remarked a woman who has been a successful teacher in the public schools for some years. "The modern girl seems to be lacking in a sense of duty. She shirks responsibility. I think the fault lies largely at home. A girl should be made to bear certain home duties and responsibilities as a part of her moral training. If for no other reason."

"We seem to have been training our boys and girls to think that their supreme right is to have a 'good time,' no matter what the cost to others—or to themselves ultimately."

"It seems to me that the only training a great many girls get is in the schools. We teachers do our best, but we cannot do it all. Often we are able to do it in the home. There are so few fathers who are so soon believe they are a law unto themselves. They take freedom that soon becomes license and they early learn to defy all authority—anything that tends to curb a 'good time.'"

"It appears to me that many parents are actually afraid of their children! Perhaps you do not understand my meaning. But children have learned to threaten. Many a well-meaning but weak-willed parent cowed by the threatening or superior attitude of a son or daughter."

"It is a common threat for a boy—or girl—to declare that he will leave home if he doesn't get what he wants or isn't given his freedom to come and go as he pleases. Also, the youngster of today says and implies upon his parents that he is far in advance of them socially, educationally and morally. This applies to both girls and boys."

The modern boy is by no means equal to the boy of a generation ago, according to the findings of investigators in Chicago.

Quoted were put to all kinds of men in a position to see the business heads of employes in shops and stores, leading students in boy problems, boy scout leaders, probation officers, men in charge of boys' schools, summer camp directors, authorities on child study, etc.

A majority of 700 answers pointed out marks of retrogression in the boy of today.

"According to the average belief," says H. D. Abelle, principal of the Morgan Park academy, who contributed to the investigation, "the great lack of the modern boy is that he has not a proper respect for his elders and that he has had the boy of a generation ago. Most boys seem to be breaking down because of the lack of restraint and discipline, and there is a general feeling that the effects of modern corporal punishment have been bad."

The remainder of the one worried father's complaint:

"That boy of mine is spoiling for a good old-fashioned whipping. He said, 'It is the only moral sanction that will respect. At the same time I don't want to whip him. I attempted to make him make such a noise that the neighbors would be ashamed to abuse a child and the kid knows it.'"

BERRY PRESERVES

SO PLENTIFUL and cheap are berries in season that it is advisable, where it is not a premium, to preserve them for future use in several palatable ways. If you have fresh raspberries, for instance, don't make them all into raspberry jam. Make some raspberry jam, mix some currant jelly, and preserve the fruit. In this way you will have three distinct dishes. Raspberries, when preserved, become more palatable, not because they do not like it, as a rule. Cause raspberries, two-thirds of them, if they are served just as they come from the can, as enough to give them a pleasant taste. Raspberries served in three or four ways are quite different matters. Raspberries, when preserved, become more palatable, not because they do not like it, as a rule. Cause raspberries, two-thirds of them, if they are served just as they come from the can, as enough to give them a pleasant taste. Raspberries served in three or four ways are quite different matters.

Blackberry catsup is rather unusual and it is not difficult to make. Wash the berries, which should be ripe and juicy, with water, bring to the boiling point, reduce the heat and simmer for ten minutes. Press them through a colander and strain the juice. Measure and to each quart add half a teaspoon each of salt, white pepper, ground cinnamon and white pepper. Boil the one-fourth cup of the original quantity. Then add strong vinegar to the consistency liked, bring to the boil and bottle and seal while hot.

Huckleberry jam can be used as any other jam is used, and it is especially good in the morning on toast. To make it use both ripe and unripe berries—red and black. Wash them, weigh them and simmer them slowly, breaking them as soon as possible, without adding water. Add a little lemon juice to bring out the flavor if desired. Simmer in this way until the berries are reduced to a third—that is, to two-thirds of their original weight of the berries, and gradually add this to the jam. When it is melted, bring the whole mass to the boiling point once, and then put in glasses.

To preserve gooseberries, begin by making a thick syrup of two pounds of sugar to a pint of water—that is, four times as much sugar as water. Boil this to the syrup stage, and then put in the gooseberries, which have been washed, and each of which has been pricked with a needle in three or four places. Bring to the boiling point, but do not boil, and stand aside until the next day. Repeat this three or four times, and on the fifth day put the preserves, while still cold, in jars. Pour the cold syrup over it and put all the jars in a boiler of cold water, where they can be kept from touching. Bring to the boiling point, remove the jars, and seal at once. This method keeps the berries from bursting.

Puzzled Parent

Polly, the washerwoman, was deep in a discussion of her family's shortcomings.

"Mah family sittin' down to have some shawtcomin'," she declared. "Fur instance, Mah son, lawse er Joe, lak grasshoppin'."

"Goodness," laughed the mistress. "How, Polly?"

"Well, buhwasne only two things in de whole worl' wuz him. He worries dat he hab to wake to eat, an' den he worries dat he hab to stop eatin' to go to sleep. An' suttin' down undahstan' dat worl'."

"But how do you conclude that he is like grasshoppin'?" queried the perplexed mistress.

"Je buhwasne he er de most misundahstindin' creature dat Ah kin think of, dat's why," she answered—Louisville Times.

THE BEDTIME STORIES

BY EDWIN BLISS

Copyright, 1915, by Fathes Exchange, Inc. All moving picture rights and all foreign copyright strictly reserved.

(Continued From Yesterday.)

NOW then and a picture would rise before him, a picture that he persisted while she was in fitting rooms. And from down and glance nervously at his watch, at the low dropping sun outside the windows. For he saw a shambles of a mess hall, broken, overturned chairs and tables, broken crockery, a mess of vile food and graven and—the blood of men, of human beings sending his reek over and above the sweat of human bodies strained to their utmost with the impulse to kill and destroy their fellow men.

And always would the frown be driven from his face, guiltily driven away to the radiant vision of the girl he loved would reappear before him, more beautiful than ever woman was before in his world, it seemed, with the child-like desire to please, to be radiantly beautiful in order that she might make proud the heart of the man she was to marry.

And once as he looked at his watch, to his strained, guilty ear came a sharp report, the report of a revolver. He started and moved swiftly toward Julia, placing his arm commandingly upon her waist. She turned the witchery of her glance upon him and, for just an instant, the suspicion of a pink pucker about her brow, he cleared instantly, then, with an exquisite, little whimper she came back to him, looking up into his face with the perplexed and worried expression of a child.

"I'm simply foolish and not a bit of a man," he murmured, and then he exclaimed: "Surely, you won't permit me to starve, Lee. Just a mouthful and then we'll have dinner."

"Hungry?" He started as she voiced his thought, and he had visualized throughout the afternoon. "No, really, Julia."

She had his remark for two, two hands. Ineffectual hands they seemed, dainty and blue-veined and almond-tipped at the fingers. And yet, like hands of steel, they drew him despite himself, despite everything, into her arms, where he felt the warm, moist lips that cried out aloud against their pressure.

III

IRA MONROE settled back in his office chair, idly staring at the hands of the big clock. He had gone over the books for the first time in a week, had listened to Pat Grady's story of the frame that had come so near ending fatally.

A faint smile hovered about his lips as he thought of his petted daughter, of the fearful consequences that might have occurred from her whimsicalness in writing concerning the food supply out there. It seemed incredible that such a slight, fragile little thing could be the storm center about which such things revolved. And yet he was dimly aware that even when he told of the affair, when he described the danger her sweetheart had been in on account of it, when he pointed out to her the place in the roof where the bullet had lodged her, she would shrug her shoulders and would be sufficient to cure her of the impossible habit she had of procrastination.

Two—three—four o'clock, and still the hands traveled along their way. At 5 o'clock the old man rose and stared anxiously out upon the road that led past the great derelict of his oil fields. Here and there he could catch a glimpse of the men, great, powerful fellows, their minds centered wholly on the mess hall and the elaborate supper that had been prepared for them.

Ira Monroe knew these men well. Among them had been brought up through their midst had he shoved his way, and he had seen them, the iron will. Every thought in their heads had been thoughts which he himself had felt; every move, every made earned his sympathy. For he knew that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

He frowned heavily. Was it possible that the men, great, powerful fellows, could know the fellows he had passed, but still remains with.

able that Payne, knowing the seriousness of the matter, could permit anything to delay him. Failure was a word which Ira Monroe had never tolerated in himself any more than he tolerated it in others. Results—that had always been the foundation stone upon which he built.

"Tick-tock—tick-tock," he muttered. The strokes were pounding at his very brain now. Like blows from a sledge he were. He clamped his hands to his ears that he might shut out the sounds of the clock. But still it hammered—hammered relentlessly.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

LITTLE BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1915, by J. G. Lloyd.)

PETER RABBIT couldn't sit still. He was so uneasy that little Mrs. Peter, who was little Miss Fuzzly before she became Mrs. Peter, quite lost patience.

"Goodness gracious! What ever is the matter with you, Peter?" she demanded.

"Nothing," replied Peter. "When they don't sit still?"

"Why don't you sit still?" she asked.

"I—I—," he stammered. Then abruptly he asked a question himself. "Say, Furry, what can we do for Farmer Brown's boy?"

"Because he has done so much for us," replied Peter.

"I'd like to know what he's done for us," declared Mrs. Peter.

"Why lots of things," replied Peter. "Don't you remember the nice cabbage leaves he left for us when our garden was frozen? And he doesn't hunt or try to trap us any more, nor let any one else. All the birds, at least a lot of them (Peter was trying to be strictly truthful) are up in the Old Orchard and Farmer Brown's berry patch and garden this very minute helping Farmer Brown's boy—and I want to help too."

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

"What are they doing?" asked Mrs. Peter, looking interested.

"Catching all the bugs and worms that eat the leaves of the trees and spoil the fruit and the things that grow in the garden. I wish I liked bugs, but I don't. Bah!" Peter made a wry face and Mrs. Peter laughed.

"I'm glad you don't," said she. "Ugh! It makes me crawl all over just to think of eating those wriggly, crawling things! Bah! I guess it's good thing that some people like them or they would eat up all the nice tender green things we like so well."

"Yes," replied Peter. "I guess it wasn't for the birds there either. It was any green thing that is all withered and shriveled and can't be eaten. Why?" Peter paused and stared very hard out over the Green Meadows for a minute, very surprised thought had popped into his head.

Today's Family Affairs

By Mary Lee

NEW YORK, July 21.—There is no longer any regard for the changing seasons as far as fabrics are concerned. Anything that suits the wearer must suit the month. The calendar may regard the summer as something quite different from the spring, but the designer's not.

Fur hats in June, broad bands of velvet on sweaters in the month of June, and in December, transparent clothing in January. So it goes! Who cares for anything so antiquated as the Georgian reckoning? If summers will be cool and winter houses are heated, why not wear what fits in with one's caprice.

And so, when a short black velvet cape-coat makes its appearance at a smart casino party, then we know that the acceptance of this heretofore winter fabric for summer usage is settled. It was a tremendously good-looking velvet cape, that is up to the individual; but really one should endeavor to wear the winter dress of the summer, for then one becomes grateful to the eyes of the beholder and, after all, that is the only reason for wearing the summer dress of the summer.

This has been the rule, and this gives the clothes of August importance.

All the separate coats intended to wear over skirts that do not match are usually intended also to cover blouses of contrasting shades. It is to be a one-piece summer, followed by a one-piece winter, at least until January.

For that phase of fashion it is wise to prepare. The multiplicity of frocks with belt, sold and worn during the summer, has in its wake without them. But now it has just come over me that without them, at all times we are bugs ourselves. Ugh! Peter shuddered and made another wry face, that Mrs. Peter laughed right out.

"This is a funny old world," continued Peter, "and I learn something every day. Just listen to the racket going on over in the Old Orchard! We can hear them way over here."

"Just then he noticed a dark speck in the air over towards the Green Forest. He knew what it was. It was Redtail the Hawk. A sudden thought popped into his head. Those workers in the Old Orchard might be too busy to notice him, but he would watch out, and so Redtail might catch one of them."

"Good-by!" shouted Peter, and before Mrs. Peter could open her mouth to say—

—he was going he was off for the Old Orchard, hip-hip-hip-hip-hip, as fast as he could go.

Next Story—Peter Rabbit and Johnny Chuck Help.

From Vaudeville (Willson Brothers)

"Say, I ain't got no time to stand here and talk vid you."

"Vere are you going?"

"I want to meet one of my aunts."

"Ugh! Ugh! do you want to meet?"

"Antisepic."

"Say, did you see my photograph in all der papers?"

"In a divorce case."

"Vot is dot, a vittness?"

"A vittness is a fellow vot don't remember. My wife's sister sued for a divorce on account of impossibility of temper and her husband sued on account of greediness."

"You mean cruelty."

"Yes, I mean cruelty. All she would do was to cry."

"In der restaurant today, chust after finished eating, der waiter feller over."

"I don't know yer he should—I didn't tip him."

Do You Inhale?

Indeed, Charlie, I think it's shocking that you should smoke like this; and (Believe me, truly, I'm not mocking)—I'd like to be the cigarette.

Where Southerners Will Find Excellent Accommodations

At Leading New York City Hotels

Booklet at Our Information Bureau

HOTEL MARSEILLE

EMPIRE HOTEL

Black Velvet coat with white corded silk collar and cuffs. The coat is of pink felt.

early summer, has in no way deteriorated the style; the French designers are busy with it in all their new models made up in what materials they could muster this summer.

It follows that when the coat suit with the shirtwaist or ornate blouse must struggle for its life against the gown complete, there must come about a variety of separate coats, long and short. Cheruti's introduction of the polonaise as a separate coat, long and short, is one way of covering a one-piece gown, and the wide flowing coat built on the commodious lines of a short cape will give another chance to look well in the accepted method of dressing.

GRAIN || Atlanta Live Stock || LIVERPOOL

Futures Closed 4 to 4 1-2 Pts.
Higher--Spots Unchanged.
Sales 12,000 Bales

NEW YORK, July 21—Late-rubber cables were due to close at 5 1/2 points higher. Market opened quiet at 5 1/2 to 5 1/4 points higher.

At 12:15 p. m. the market was quiet but prices were not unchanged to 1/2 point lower.

Spot cotton in the market was unchanged. Prices, middling, 5.14; sales, 12,000. Futures closed very steady, 4 to 4 1/2 points higher than previous close.

LEVERAGE COTTON

The following were the ruling prices on the 5.14 level, very steady; sales, 2,000; middling, 5.14.

	Opening Range.	7 a. m. Close.	Prev.
Jan. & Feb.	5.35-5.39	5.35 1/2	5.39 1/2
Feb. & March	5.40-5.44	5.41	5.44
March & Apr.	5.45-5.49 1/2	5.46 1/2	5.49 1/2
April & May	5.50-5.54 1/2	5.51 1/2	5.54 1/2

July	Aug.	5.02½-5.33		5.31	5.32
Aug.	Sept.	5.01½-5.32	5.01½	5.07	5.02½
Aug. & Sept.	5.06-5.33½		5.10½	5.06½
Sept. & Oct.	5.13-5.13½		5.18½	5.14½
Oct. & Nov.	5.20-5.21	5.20½	5.25	5.21
Nov. & Dec.	5.26-5.28		5.31	5.27
Dec. & Jan.			5.36	5.32

LIVERPOOL FLASHES

Time.	Jan. Feb.	Mar. Apr.	July	Oct. Nov.
2 p. m.	5.35		5.01½	5.29½
8-15	5.37
3-24	5.36
3-23
3-25	5.37			5.22
3-50

4:57 5.30
4:00 5.40 5.50 5.97 5.25

LIVERPOOL EXCHANGE TO CLOSE.
(By Associated Press.)
LIVERPOOL July 21.—The Liverpool cotton exchange will be closed July 31 and August 2.

NAVAL STORES
(By Associated Press.)
SAVANNAH, Ga., July 21.—Turpentine, firm, 30 1/2 @ 40c; sales, none; receipts, 434.
Rosin, firm; sales, none; receipts, 198.
Quote: B, $2.50 @ 2.50; D, $4.00 @ 3.05, R, $3.05 @ 3.10; F, $3.15 @ 3.20; G and H, $3.00 @ 3.22 1/2; K, $3.05, M, $4.25, N, $2.82 1/2.

Your Money
When a City Bond
Is Not a Good Bond.
By JOHN M. OSKISON.

An item of recent financial history ought to be known to investors in city bonds:
The city of Rome, in Georgia, some time ago authorized the sale of an issue of school bonds. Buyers were invited to bid. A firm of bond dealers of Cincinnati put in the best bid, and the bonds were awarded to the firm.

Between the time the bonds were sold and the date of delivery to the dealers the city officials of Rome were changed. The new officials called upon the bond dealers to pay the money, but upon advice of counsel the dealers refused to receive the bonds from the new officials.

It is altogether probable that the technical defect in bonds executed and delivered by a different set of officials from those who authorized them would not prevent Rome from paying the bonds when they became due. But the bond buyer must not be content with a probability of repayment, he must be certain that no legal weakness is in the issue.

It has happened that cities have repudiated bonds containing no greater technical defect, and the courts have upheld the repudiating municipalities.

Somewhere on the circulars of good bond dealers offering bond issues for sale will appear a phrase like this: "Legal opinion of Blank, Blank & Blank." It is something to look for, as it means that the dealer has guarded against danger of repudiation on account of legal defects so far as he can.

It is a good thing to remember that people don't like to pay debts. A certain percentage of debtors will seek to evade payment by any device that can be construed as legal.

Also, it is a good thing to remember that a city's debt is merely the obligation of its people, and that when you buy a city bond you are lending money to the people of that city.

Handling city bonds is the business of experts. To buy them through expert dealers is only common sense.

BONDS FOR SALE.

Sealed bids will be received at my office till 8 o'clock p. m., August 11, 1913, for ten thousand dollars worth of electric light refunding bonds of the city of Elberton. Certified check for two hundred dollars must accompany each bid. The city reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Bonds are dated July 1, 1913, half per cent interest, and mature as follows: 10 Bonds, July 1, 1935; 2, July 1, 1929; 2, July 1, 1930; 2, July 1, 1931; 2, July 1, 1932; 2, July 1, 1933. Sealed bids to

W. F. JONES, City Clerk and Treasurer.

STATEMENT.
th, 1915, of the condition of the Fire Insurance Co.,
ENCE, R. I.,
Rhode Island, made to the Governor

Number) 10 Weybosset Street.
	Par Value	Market Value
the company ..	$235,000.00	$232,180.00
.....	7,169.00
.....	6,094.00
.....		4,210.00
.....		7,923.75
.....		9,495.54
.....		1,541.66

cash market		$255,350.95
.....
ies.
in suspense, in-
sses	$ 20,378.18	$ 20,378.18
.....		10,040.00
.....		151,006.46
.....		159.60
.....		73,846.71
.....		$255,350.95

the year 1915	$163,067.33
	5,795.29
	5,198.13
the first six months in cash.	$174,060.75
of the year 1915	$ 30,494.92
	122,894.21
fees, salaries, etc.	14,343.24
	10,000.00
Taxes	2,246.60

months of the year	$179,928.91
risk	$ 40,000.00
.....	$25,420,900.00

certified, is on file in the office of assigned, Alfred U. Eddy, who being the President of the Mercantile Muse foregoing statement is correct and

ALFRED U. EDDY, President.

ROYAL G. LUTHER, Notary Public

YOU NEED A VERY STRONG PAIR OF GLASSES TO FIND ANY LOGIC IN REAL LIFE.—By Goldberg.

Copyright, 1915, by R. L. Goldberg.

GRAND DUKE UNABLE TO STOP MAD RUS H ON CITY OF WARSAW

(Continued from Page One.)

Reconstruction of the bridge in so short a time is regarded as an engineering feat.

Italians Continue to Claim New Advance on Isonzo

ROME, Tuesday, July 20.—(Via London, July 21.)—Heavy fighting and Italian gains on the Isonzo front, north of the Gulf of Trieste, are announced in the war office statement tonight.

"Our vigorous offensive all along the Isonzo front continued yesterday," says the report, "progress being made especially on the Corso plateau, where several additional trenches were taken and 500 prisoners, including five officers, captured."

"Although fatigued by the sharp and stubborn struggle, provoked until nightfall, our troops established themselves rapidly and firmly in the conquered positions and resisted counter attacks during the night. Their actions continue to develop."

"The situation over the rest of the front is unchanged."

Russians Put Up Desperate Resistance but to No Avail

BERLIN, July 21.—(Via London.)—A local Anseier dispatch from Czernowitz, capital of Bukovina, reports heavy fighting along the Danube near the Bukovina-Galicia border. The Russians brought up heavy reinforcements and determinedly attempted to retake their positions on the left bank of the river. They were supported by heavy artillery, but the dispatch says their attacks failed.

Along the Dnieper front also the Russians have made desperate attacks during the last four nights. They broke into the Austrian positions in one place, but the attacking forces subsequently were captured. Monday night the Russians made eight assaults at various points on this front.

According to dispatches reaching Berlin, all of the official archives in Riga, the Russian Baltic port now threatened by the Germans, together with the money, stocks, bonds and court records, were taken to Petrograd Monday. Government officials have been advised to be ready to depart. It is said more than 10,000 inhabitants of the city fled last week.

69 Turkish Ships Laden With Flour Are Sunk

PETROGRAD, July 21.—(Via London.)—The following official communication has been received from Russian army headquarters in the Caucasus: "Our destroyer flotilla destroyed a fleet of 69 Turkish sailing vessels laden with flour."

A battle is raging in the direction of Mush, (Asia Turkey, 83 miles south-east of Erzerum). We captured Nazik on the course of the Caucasus.

Lively Infantry Actions Reported in the Vosges

PARIS, July 21.—(Via London.)—The following official statement was issued today:

"In Artois the night was marked by a cannonade in the vicinity of Souchez and from Neuville. Soldiers were bombarded."

"In the forest of Apremont the enemy attacked at the Cote Head and La Vaux Ferry and were completely repulsed."

"In the Vosges there were lively infantry actions on the heights overlooking the eastern side of the valley of the Meuse. From the north we took part of the German defensive works, progressing particularly within a short distance of the crest of La Ligne."

"Thirty-eight aviators yesterday bombarded the station of Conflans in Germany, an important junction. Three shells of 155 millimeters each and four of 80 millimeters fell directly on the station. The engine shed was struck by a 155 millimeter shell. Three enemy aviators were put to flight by our scouting aeroplanes accompanying the squadron. One enemy machine was compelled to land."

"Two of our aeroplanes yesterday afternoon again bombarded Conflans in the Upper Alsace. Four shells of 155 millimeters and four of 80 millimeters fell on the tracks."

Yes—Many People have told us the same story—dyspepsia after eating, gas, heartburn.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet

before and after each meal will relieve you. Sold only by us—25c.

ELKIN DRUG CO.

GOLD WAVE (red ash) is the one best coal. $4.75.

CARROLL & HUNTER

FRANK'S RECOVERY ALMOST CERTAIN. DOCTORS BELIEVE

(Continued from Page One.)

and other attendants has been permitted to see him until this morning when newspaper correspondents were admitted to his bedside.

Frank recognized one correspondent by holding out his right hand, bandaged from the wound received in his scuffle with Green. He smiled bravely and called the correspondent's name. The whispered greeting started his cough and he was permitted to say nothing further.

Suffering was written on Frank's face. His neck is swollen from the effect of his wound and loss of blood has had a telling effect on him. Despite all his evident suffering, however, he forced a smile.

Since his throat was slashed, Frank has talked to no one except in monosyllables to Mrs. Frank, doctors and nurses. His condition is such that anything like an interview with him is out of the question.

He has made no statement other than those of Saturday night, when to all appearance facing death, he said: "I have nothing to fear. I hope the Lord will forgive Green."

He is bearing his suffering uncomplainingly and with a fortitude that doctors assert is remarkable.

No one else will be permitted to see Frank today or probably for several days to come.

Green greeted newspaper correspondents cheerfully this morning, but still refuses to discuss his attack on Frank. He asserted that he will see no more visitors and his wishes in this particular will be respected by prison officials. Mrs. Frank appears much cheered this morning after talking with the physicians. She will remain here until it is absolutely certain that Frank is out of danger.

ASQUITH DECLINES TO DISCUSS PEACE MOVE

LONDON, July 21.—When Sir William Asquith, Liberal, asked Premier Asquith in the house of commons today to restate more definitely the essential objects for which Great Britain is fighting, in the hope that peaceful influences might result in those objects being attained by other means than warfare, the premier replied:

"I stated these objects with as much plainness as I am capable of at the beginning of the war and at the Guild hall, and I am unable to add anything to those statements."

Pressed to take under consideration the peace movement of the German Socialists, Premier Asquith reiterated:

Kaiser Did Not Say War Would End by October

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, July 21.—(Via London.) The statement attributed to Emperor William that the war would end in October is stamped by the Tagblatt as "a plain invention." The Tagblatt says competent official circles know nothing of such a declaration.

GREENVILLE ROAD WORK TO GO STRAIGHT AHEAD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) GREENVILLE, S. C., July 21.—It is announced that the work on the roads of Greenville county will go forward just as if there were no case in court to decide the legality of the $350,000 bond issue. The actual surveys will be made in the immediate future. The principal highways leading into the city have already been settled upon as the first to receive attention.

When this work is finished there will be no county in the south with a better or more complete system of modern roads.

TWO YEARS AND A HALF FOR THEFT OF $8,005

(By Associated Press.)

MOBILE, Ala., July 21.—Two years and a half in the penitentiary was the sentence handed down yesterday by Judge Semmes to William T. Merrivether, who recently pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. Merrivether was arrested following the theft of $8,005 from the safe of the Southern Express company here. A confession led the police to recover a large part of the money and exonerated two others arrested in connection with the case.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION AGAINST JOHN A. DIX

(By Associated Press.)

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21.—Announcement was made here today that friendly involuntary petitions in bankruptcy had been filed at Utica, against Governor John A. Dix, individually, and the Moose River Lumber company, of which he is the principal stockholder. No statement of assets or liabilities was given. Business conditions are blamed in both cases.

NOTICES

SPECIAL NOTICES

ALL members of Atlanta Division No. 100, Order of the Sons of the American Revolution, are respectfully requested to meet at 15 West Alabama street, at 2:15 p. m., July 22, to attend funeral of our late brother Robert J. Harrison.

H. M. PATTON, Chief Conductor.
E. A. WARWICK, Secretary.

CAROLINA PORTLAND CEMENT COMPANY

Atlanta, Ga.
Wholesale Lumber, Shingles, Laths, Slate-covered Asphalt Shingles, Arms Plaster, Keystone White Lime, Hydrated Lime, Standard Cement.

SCHOOL BONDS FOR SALE

The voters of East Point, Ga., having assented to the issue and sale of Thirty thousand Dollars of School Bonds, the Mayor and Council will receive sealed bids for the same until August the first next, subject to validation. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

This July 20th, 1915.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.

W. T. SPALDING, Jr., Clerk of Council.